

Small Poems

These poems focus on the smallest things that you can think of. The poem is written in pairs of lines where the first line starts with, "Small is a" and the second line starting with "waiting to".

Write your own poem about the smallest things you can think of at home, in school, in the shop or in any other setting. What is Small? Small is a dot waiting to make a letter. Small is a sharpener waiting for a pencil. Small is an eraser waiting for a spelling error Small is a fly waiting to distract me. Small is a cobweb waiting for the fly. Small is my bag zip waiting to catch the sunlight.

Writing Poetry

Small is the blind hole waiting to let the sunlight in.
