

Hallowe'en Traditions

Hallowe'en is held on October 31st each year.

The background is a solid orange color. It features several pumpkins: one in the top left corner, one in the center, and another partially visible at the bottom. Scattered throughout are black paper-cut silhouettes of bats and small, round, multi-colored confetti pieces in shades of yellow, pink, and orange.

Black and orange are colours associated with Hallowe'en.

Children dress up in scary costumes.

Some children wear scary
Hallowe'en masks.

Some children get their faces painted.

A photograph of a pumpkin patch. In the foreground, several large, ripe orange pumpkins are scattered on the ground. In the background, the lower legs and feet of several people are visible, suggesting they are walking through the field. The scene is outdoors with green leaves of the pumpkin plants visible.

People go to the fields
to select a pumpkin.

Pumpkins are carved into Jack-O'-Lanterns.

Children go Trick-or-Treating in their Hallowe'en costumes.

Children gather sweets from their Trick-or-Treating in the neighbourhood.

Families have a Hallowe'en party.

Sometimes, a Hallowe'en bonfire is lit.

Sometimes, a Hallowe'en fireworks display is held.

Peanuts, sometimes known as Monkey Nuts, are eaten at this time of the year.

Toffee Apples are a sticky and delicious treat at this time of the year.

Barm Brack (Báirín Breac) is a sweet fruit bread made at Hallowe'en.

Colcannon is sometimes served at Hallowe'en. It is made up of mashed potato mixed with kale or cabbage.

Fruits like apples, pears and grapes are plentiful and great to eat at Hallowe'en.

Lots of different nuts are plentiful and it's traditional to eat them at Hallowe'en.

Bobbing for apples is a fun
Hallowe'en game to play.

Some people read or tell scary ghost stories.

Children play a game of Snap Apple.
